RELYCO Approved to Supply Secure Temporary License Plates for the District of Columbia, Enhancing Security and Inventory Management

Dover, NH, September 9, 2024 – RELYCO is proud to announce that it has been officially approved by the District of Columbia to supply temporary license plates, offering a reliable solution to meet the increasing need for enhanced security and better inventory management. This milestone highlights RELYCO's dedication to supporting governments and institutions with secure document solutions, helping to address growing concerns around temporary license plate fraud and revenue loss.

Across the nation, temporary license plate fraud is rising, posing risks to law enforcement and causing millions of dollars in lost revenue for states and jurisdictions. In response to these growing challenges, RELYCO leverages over 35 years of expertise in secure document solutions, providing not only durable materials but a full ecosystem of services to streamline and protect temporary plate programs.

At the heart of this solution are advanced security measures designed to ensure the integrity of temporary plates. RELYCO recognized the District of Columbia's need for printing control numbers, managing registration data, implementing secure materials and tracking inventory. These security features, such as micro text, barcodes and other visible deterrents, work together to make the plates more difficult to counterfeit and easier to manage.

“We’re thrilled to partner with the District of Columbia to enhance security and streamline inventory management,” said RELYCO CEO, Bruce Steinberg. “This isn’t just about providing a material; it’s about offering a full solution that helps jurisdictions better control plate distribution and security. Our goal is to give governments the tools they need to manage this process efficiently and ensure no more revenue is left behind.”

With over a decade of experience managing state, third-party agents and auto dealer temporary plate programs, RELYCO is more than just a supplier – they are a trusted partner. Offering secured custom eCommerce sites, robust distribution management software and custom plate creation, RELYCO ensures compliance, quality and peace of mind for all stakeholders.
